

Spanish Proverbs.
He that has no bread, must not keep a dog.

1556. It is better to go round the stream than cross it in crossing.
The best work a mother can do, is to take care of her children.
Nothing great can be effected without trouble and labor.

What we learn in our infancy remains forever
 A regular diet cures more people than physic.
 Temperance, application, and courage, overcome Difficulties.
 Water drinkers are never drunk, nor nervous
 In debt.
 There is no better looking-glass than an friend.
 People who take out, and do not put in, soon become poor.
 The best catch at dice is not to play.
 Children tell in the street what they hear in house.
 The devil lies in a sorcerer's man's chest.
 It is sound policy to suffer all extremities rather than to do a base action.
 A little shame to show; light gains make heavy purse.
 Do not sign a writing which you have not read.
 He that signs a writing which you have not seen
 Has said and lies shall find the lie left in purse.
 Old reckonings make new quarrels.
 He that thinks and lies shall find the lie left in purse.
 It is better to be alone than in bad company.

Guardians and administrators generally live, but are generally deficient in their accounts. We must take pains if we expect to get anything. He who has a wolf for his companion must call a dog under his cloak.

BAD PRACTICES.—A writer in the (English) Bad Christian Magazine, enumerates the following very bad practices, which he solicits his readers to avoid:

1. Providing intoxicating liquors against the birth of a child.
2. Having ale, wine, pipes, and tobacco, out on the table for the attendants at a funeral.
3. Females getting together and mixing rum and their tea.
4. Sending the servant or one of the children

5. Taking a bottle or flask of liquor in your pocket or basket when you take a railway journey.
6. Men's wives calling at the dram-shop when they go or return from market.
7. Giving their chair-women also on washing days.
8. Keeping a bottle in the vestry for the minister's use after preaching.
9. A magistrate finding a poor drunkard 5 shillings and costs, when he commits the man to the stocks.
10. Tradesmen meeting night after night in the bar parlour.
11. Of relating the layings of the foundation stone and of rearing of buildings with drink.
12. Having wine at dinner and drinking less in that which destroys more health than even

14. Young ladies sipping wine when their friends call to see them.

15. Children learning to drink at their father's table.

16. Members of various societies stopping drink late at night after being brought out when they are tired.

17. The deacons being sought out by the spiritual instructor calls to assembly of his flock.

THE LOVER'S OUSE.—Oliver Wendell Holmes the doctor who gives people the idea of laughing, or a letter to the post office of a ladies' fair at Pittsfield. On the first page was written:

"Fair lady, whose'er thou art,
Turn this poor leaf with tenderest care,
And hush, oh hush, thy breathing heart—

one dollar bill, with some verses, beginning:

"Fair lady, lift thine eyes and tell,
If this is not a truthful letter;
This is the one (1) thou lovest well,
And nought (2) can make thee leave it better."

POPULAR DEFINITION.—What is fashion? It came at midnight, and headaches in the morning. What is wit? That peculiar kind of talk that leads to pulled notes and broken heads. What is idleness? Working yellow mountain on subsoil, or a blue-tailed dog in sky-colored

What is joy? To count your money and find to overrun one hundred dollars.

What is conscience? Something that a gentleman feels every time it thunders.

What is contentment? To sit in the house and see other people stink in the mud. In other words to be better off than your neighbors.

SHAWLS.—The Brooklyn Eagle thinks shawls should be worn for the following rhyming reason:

If you want to be in fashion, wear a shawl; to ladies an attraction, wear a shawl; if to shawl.

A FAST YOUNG MAN.—MARRIED TWICE WITHIN ONE MONTH.—A young German, named John Luernert was committed to the city prison this morning upon a charge of bigamy. It appears that on the 11th of January he married Joanna C. Weisel, a the alcohol that he was drunk when he married Rachel; and that she was drunk too.

N. Y. Post, Jan. 31

CONSUMPTION.—Why cannot a bald-headed man be a father? Answer (the reader will kind enough to hold his breath for a moment)—Because—because there is no possibility of having any "heirs apparent."
